Thought for the Day

Listen well, but not to idle whispers.
Not to slanderous words that bear a sting.
Listen well that only truthful utterance Thou mayest give to every little thing.
Hear the good alone and then retain it.
Pass the evil—let the wrong go by.
Cherish only thoughts that make thee better.
Keep the truth that nevermore shall lie. —Selected.

Mrs. H. H. Harold assisted by her daughter, Miss Sidney Harold, entertained at a most delightful tea on the lawn of her pretty suburban home, "Pinehurst," Saturday afternoon between the hours of four and six, in compliment to Miss Jefferson Bell, a special friend and neighbor of the hostess who leaves in a very few days to make her home in Miami.
Mrs. Harold with her charming daughter and the popular honoree were gowned in dainty summer frocks and received their guests most graciously and informally, and the hour over the teacups was indeed thoroughly enjoyable. The guests at this pretty little party were Misses Daisy Bell, Lila Brumby, Mrs. G. J.
Blitch, Mrs. D. M. Smith, Mrs. R. A.
Burford, Mrs. B. T. Perdue, Mrs. W.
H. Clark, Mrs. Emily Green, Mrs. T.

Richardson.

The young ladies camping this season at Indian Grove Park, near Hendersonville, S. C., have established a weekly camp paper known as "The Mountain Sprout Tattler." It is proving a most interesting and popular publication and is edited exclusively by Florida girls, Miss Janet Byrd of Tallahassee, being editor-in-chief.
The editorial staff composed of Misses Byrd, editor; Marguerite Frary of Eustis, sporting editor; Lois Gray of Jacksonville, society editor; Estelle Eldridge of Pensacola, nature lore editor, and Mabel Overstreet of Eustis, joke editor. Nearly all of these talented girls have friends in this city who will read with interest of their good times. Something new is planned for every day. Monday being field day, a sack and potato and hurdle race were enjoyed, followed by a mock wedding in the evening.
Tuesday evening the girls will start on a gypsy tramp and bacon bat, going over to Batt Cave, at which place are a number of Ocala girls, then on to Chimney Rock and the "Wonderful Trail," returning to camp at the end of the week.

hour following these meetings are thoroughly enjoyable. The hostesses served refreshing fruit punch during the afternoon, followed by two kinds

Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Ogle were visited by a surprise party Saturday evening when a number of their neighbors and friends assembled at a mysterious hour and announced that they had come to help them celebrate their golden wedding anniversary.
Immediately the Ogle home was thrown wide open for the reception of the unexpected guests and a merry, jolly, good old-fashioned time was enjoyed for several hours. Mrs. Webb of Kendrick acted as spokesman, and most graciously and charmingly delivered an appropriate and beautiful congratulatory speech in behalf of the guests present, and to their sentiment and good wishes, and in appreciation of the friendship of this greatly loved couple, she presented in commemoration of their fiftieth marriage anniversary an appropriate gold coin. Upon a table immediately in front of the "bride and groom" was placed the golden wedding cake, surmounted with pyramids of snow icing with the inscription, "To everybody's friend" traced in golden letters across the top. The ceremony of cutting this wonderful cake was great fun and with it was served refreshing grapefruit punch.
The wee sma hours were creeping along when the happy guests departed, amid a shower of hearty good wishes for many more wedding anni-

TAUNTED INTO ACTION.

Both of Them Could Ride and Were Willing to Prove It.

When flag lieutenant to Admiral Sir Henry Keppel, commander in chief at Plymouth, Lord Charles Beresford used to hunt a good deal with the Dartmoor hounds. One day when there was no run, and every one was bored, one of the ladies present begged young Beresford to provide some kind of sport.
Lord Charles tells the story in his "Memoirs."

"You must do something to amuse us," the lady said.

"Very well, I will," said I.
Among the officers there were an elderly admiral and an elderly general, and I pointed them out to the lady.

"I will get up a race between them," I said.

She said I could not. I began with the soldier. Ambling alongside the

"WHAT ABOUT THE ADMIRAL?"

general, I asked him if he had ridden much in his life.

"Of course I have!" he answered ir-ritably. "What do you mean, sir?"

"Nothing at all," said I. "I thought I would ask. The admiral?"

"What about the admiral?" cried the general, staring suspiciously at that unconscious officer.

"He said he didn't think you knew much about a horse."

The general lost his temper. He said he would show the admiral what he knew about a horse.

"You can easily prove it," said I, and before the general quite understood what was happening, he had agreed to ride a race. Then I went over to the admiral.

"Do you know what the general says?" He says you look like a monkey on a horse," says I.

"Cursed impudence!" said the admiral. "I'll race him and beat him any day in the week."

"If you really want a race I'll arrange the whole thing," said I. And I brought the two wrathful old gentlemen together, rode with them to the starting point, gave the word, and off they went as hard as they could pelt.

The general was drawing ahead when his horse balked at a soft place. The admiral's horse did the same and threw his rider forward on his neck.

"Get back into the saddle and he'll go through!" I shouted, for I knew the horse. The admiral hove himself into his seat and won the race.

Unselfishness.

Even in ordinary life the unselfish people are the happiest—those who work to make others happy and who forget themselves. The dissatisfied people are those who are seeking happiness for themselves.—Besant.

Getting it Right.

A certain society lady has been noted since girlhood for her ready wit. The other day a young man of humorous bent exclaimed in her presence:

"What could be more dreadful for a woman than, after mending her husband's coat, to find in one of the pocket-ets a love letter from another woman?"

"Fortunately," said the lady, "that could never happen. The woman would find the letter first, and then she would not mend the coat."

Would Work Both Ways.

It would be difficult to find a region where the ups and downs of fortune have been so sudden and extreme as in California. In its early days, before its production of grain was equal to the demand, wages of farm hands were high, but as production increased the prices lowered faster than the rate of wages. A farmer employed an industrious Irishman for five years, at the rate of $20 a month "and found"— board, lodging, washing and mending.
At the end of the term he said to his man:

"I can't afford to pay you the wages I have been paying. You have saved money and I have saved nothing. At this rate you will soon own my farm."

"Then I'll hire you to work for me," said the other, "and you can get your farm back again."—Arzonaut.

Changed His Belief.

After a visit to a well known entomologist, whose wonderful microscopes have proved that there is always some living thing to be found preying on the last of the minutest creatures last seen, a New York writer turned to him and said: "I came here believing myself to be an individual. I have knowing myself to be a community."
